Overdose Said Cause Of Singer's Death

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — A drug overdose apparently caused the death of rock singer Gram Parsons. San Bernardino County Pathologist Dr. Ervin Root said Saturday.

An earlier preliminary finding by the county coroner indicated that Parsons, 26, had died of natural causes.

Root said the apparent drug overdose resulted from "multiple drug use."

Parsons, a former member of "The Byrds" rock group, died Sept. 19 at a motel in the small desert town of Joshua Tree.
